

Pause to remember liberty defenders

By Gen. Michael Ryan
USAFE commander

Our nation will pause May 26 to remember those who paid the ultimate price in defense of liberty and American ideals. As we celebrate Memorial Day, I ask each of you to pay tribute to these fallen heroes and to renew your commitment to preserving the freedoms they died for.

Whether they gave their lives at Concord in the Revolutionary War or in the skies over Iraq during Desert Storm, the military men and women who came before us have left a proud legacy and we owe it to them to carry the torch of liberty into the next century. We are reminded that courage, duty and valor are not forgotten.

As airmen and civilians in the United States Air Force, we are familiar with the call of duty and the significant impact it has on the lives of our fellow Americans. Our missions place great demands on each of us and our families, but the reward of peace is well worth our efforts. You have helped to maintain the peace in Bosnia and Liberia, and you have provided food and humanitarian supplies throughout Europe and Africa. And you have given hope to those who believed there was none.

I am proud to serve with each of you and to sustain the proud heritage of our United States Armed Forces. Take pride in your service to our country and the heritage represented in that service. All veterans – past and present – can stand tall on Memorial Day.

Leave island without leave

Is it possible for RAF Lakenheath people to leave the United Kingdom without taking leave?

No, but we've proposed using a U.S. European Command Form 80-R in lieu of a leave request to allow for passage through British Immigration without having to be on a leave status. British authorities are presently considering this and we'll let our community know their decision. Until then, Liberty Wing members are required to be on leave status when visiting outside the United Kingdom.

Thanks to housing

I would like to extend my appreciation to Ian Taylor from housing referral. I had some problems when I moved from the dorms to an off-base location. I believe that without Ian's intervention, I would probably have lived in a hotel for a while.

Thanks for your call. Our housing office takes pride in its customer service. When people like Ian take that extra step and extra care in their work, it makes life a little bit easier for our "family." I'm glad we succeeded in getting you settled.

Thanks to skating rink

A few months ago, there was a teen age lock-in at the skating rink. The people in charge did a fantastic job. My daughter felt unwell and decided to come home. Within 20 minutes, the rink had called to let me know that she was not there. I think that's great that I can let my daughter go to something like that and know that there are responsible adults there.

Thanks for your feedback. The lock-in at the skating rink was the first teen-directed activity sponsored by the Lakenheath-Mildenhall joint Youth Action Team. Both communities are dedicated to taking a proactive role in the lives of our youth. By providing a fun and interactive environment, they ensured the teen's safety and well-being. I echo your thanks to all of those who assisted with the lock-in. If you're interested in assisting the YAT with future events, call Barbara Board at Ext. 2935.

Is sick daycare possible

Is it possible to institute a "sick daycare," perhaps one room in the child development center with a Red Cross nurse or a volunteer who could care for kids with a minor virus or cold? This would prevent sickness from spreading throughout the CDC room and affecting the other people, and let active duty members return to work as scheduled.

I appreciate your suggestion, but at this time we are unable to provide a daycare facility for sick children. We currently have more than 400 children on the waiting list for the CDC. To designate one room for sick children will take away space for up to 12 other children. Also, our medical experts advise that it isn't a good practice to mix sick children with other sick children. The best place for a non-serious sick child is at home if at all possible. We understand that this puts a greater burden on you as parents, but is in the best interest of the children.

Spouse receives Joan Orr award

By SrA. Sarah Franco
Public affairs

The Air Force Association chose an RAF Lakenheath spouse to receive the 1997 Joan Orr Air Force Spouse of the Year Award.

Rachel Stahl, wife of SSgt. Doug Stahl, 48th Component Repair Squadron, was selected for the award in part for her community involvement and leadership by example.

Last year, Stahl was the enlisted spouses club president, community scholarship association vice president and general volunteer.

"I volunteered about 40 hours a week," she said. "Being involved with the ESC made me involved with everything they do."

All the volunteering and work she did helped others in numerous ways. In total, she helped raise more than $66,000 for charity. She was instrumental in both the enlisted spouses club and officers wives club bazaars. She has been a key member of the committee which plans and conducts the quarterly dormitory residents dinners, and she helped select and distribute money provided by the "Volunteering is a way to be part of the community," Stahl said. "Whatever I'm doing, I give 100 percent. I get the personal satisfaction of knowing I've done my best."

"Stahl's many contributions to the RAF Lakenheath community truly epitomize the selfless dedication of the Air Force spouse," said AFA officials. "She embodies the principle of 'service before self.'"

USAFE band visits Bury

AFPC page has assignment info

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—To provide enlisted members with more information on assignments, the Air Force Personnel Center enlisted assignments division has gone on line with a web site.

Titled "Enlisted Information and Updates," the site provides a wide spectrum of information on most enlisted assignment programs within the Air Force. It's available 24 hours a day and can be accessed from anywhere in the world.

Some of the information available on the page includes how to use the Enlisted Quarterly Assignment Listing and EQUAL Plus; the Continental United States assignment swap program; the date eligible to return from overseas forecast system; join spouse program and first sergeant duty, to name just a few.

"We have over 20 different links to information which deal with these different programs," said SSgt. Tom Sawyer, NCO in charge of the AFPC issues and procedures section. "We also created a 'frequently asked questions' site."

The site address is <http://www.afpc.af.mil/asnment/htdocs/enlweb.htm>.

"After using the page, we encourage everyone to direct questions to their local military personnel flight or commander's support staff," Sawyer said. "But we do have an e-mail address on the page if people want to contact us directly. Since this is an official channel, we ask people provide their name, rank and Social Security number when they contact AFPC." (Courtesy of AFPC News Service)

Construction approved for housing improvements

By SSgt. Scott Davis
Public affairs

The quality of government housing will improve as more than $11 million in construction and maintenance projects has been approved, according to RAF Lakenheath housing management officials.

About 543 houses in 13 housing areas will be upgraded during the next year and a half, according to John Busca, deputy chief of housing management.

The whole-house renovations will affect families in Shepherd's Grove family housing and Lakenheath's Canterbury Close. In the future, RAF Mildenhall housing will have some whole-house renovations.

Eight families will be relocated from each of these areas. After construction is completed on the first eight houses, other residents in those housing areas will move into the renovated houses, and the newly vacated houses will be renovated. This will continue until the projects are completed, estimated to be December 1998.

Hartford, St. Ives closing

The contract for the Hartford and St. Ives government-leased housing areas expires Dec. 31 and will not be renewed, housing officials said. Families who are required to move will have the option of moving into one of RAF Lakenheath's family housing areas or pursuing economy housing.

"We're limited in what we can offer people," Busca said. "But, we'll work with what's available."

About 40 families living in Hartford and St. Ives will be moved according to their DEROS, Busca said. Members with a DEROS in January or February 1998 have the option to be moved into temporary living facilities in December and receive temporary living allowances. Families required to move may accept a house with one bedroom less than they are entitled to increase their chances of moving into a specific housing area.

The government will pay for all of the housing moves, Busca said. Also, some of the other moving costs will be reimbursed, and families opting to move into economy housing will receive the moving-in housing allowance of nearly $400.

Residents of these housing areas should visit the housing office to make sure their records show their current DEROS and bedroom entitlements. The housing office will send a letter with more information to the residents affected.

Liberty Wing sharpens its sword

By Maj. Phillip Beaudoin
Wing readiness

The 48th Fighter Wing continued to sharpen its sword during last week's local surety inspection here.

From May 9 - 16, the Liberty Wing demonstrated its proficiencies in numerous scenarios critical to mission effectiveness and similar to those the wing will see during an external surety inspection.

"We put them through their paces," said Maj. Gary Webb, wing readiness chief. "Our objective was to test the wing in much the same way the (surety inspection) team will in October."

Personnel from all four groups participated in limited exercises which verified their capability as well as thorough inspection of paperwork and processes. The inspections were detailed and difficult, especially in the area of the personnel reliability program.

"We want to ensure the wing is ready," said MSgt. Kelvin Means, readiness inspections division superintendent. "To do this, we need to be meticulous during inspections and everyday duties."

"This (inspection) was important because it was the last before the USAFE staff assistance visit in June," Webb said. "Our next exercise will be monitored by experts from USAFE to check our progress."

After June, the next visit will be by the USAFE inspector general for the actual inspection which will assure the wing's capabilities. This inspector evaluates the wing's management of resources by comparing unit performance against approved safety, security and reliability standards.

"There's been a lot of turnover since last year and I'm extremely proud of the attention we've paid to ensuring the 48th is ready and capable of doing the mission right," said Col. Doug Richardson, wing commander. "Despite the two months since the last local surety inspection, the wing has not laid off. I've noticed key improvements, which means we've remained focused on readiness and training."

"I want to reemphasize our surety program and affirm our focus in 1997

SrA. Shawna Fisher responds to an emergency from her Humvee.

on this important inspection. This year will continue to offer each of you more change and uncertainty, but all of us should be comforted to know that we have a rock-solid program that will keep us on track throughout the summer and right into the surety inspection."

Here are some of the necessary steps to be ready:

- All squadrons need to evaluate and correct all deficiencies identified in any surety inspection.

- Pay attention to the June 1996 surety report to prevent repeat write-ups. To get a copy, call wing readiness at Ext. 3509.

- Be prepared to brief the assessment of your area's status beginning in June.

- Coordinate preparation efforts with any affected agency and wing readiness.

- Review 48th Fighter Wing OPlan 86-01, Inspection Team Reception Plan to fulfill responsibilities.

Richardson summed it up by simply saying: "the objective is clear - live up to our motto 'Done Right - First Time - On Time!'"

The wing's next surety inspection is June 16 - 20.

48th Fighter Wing goes 50 days without a DUI

Liberty Wing active-duty members have gone 50 days without having a DUI, as of Wednesday. Here is a list of recent civilian convictions.

Up a creek

At about 4 a.m. Feb. 26, an airman first class drove off an embankment at the intersection of the Wangford Fen Road and B1112.

He went over two three-inch concrete pillars, through a fence, and crashed into a creek. A blood test several hours later revealed a blood-alcohol level of 54 British micrograms, equivalent to .12 g alcohol/100 ml blood. The airman was convicted of DUI in a British court. Punishment consisted of £270, £30 court costs; driver's license suspended 12 months.

Right side = wrong side

At 11:38 p.m., Feb. 9, a police constable stopped a captain for driving on the wrong side of traffic-control devices on Hamilton Road, Newmarket. A roadside breath test revealed a blood-alcohol level of 44 British micrograms, equivalent to .092 g alcohol/100 ml of blood. The captain was convicted in a British court of driving with excessive BAC. Punishment consisted of £400 fine, £35 court costs; driver's license suspended 12 months.

Roundabout too much

At 11:30 p.m. Dec. 13, a constable stopped a senior airman on the A1101 at Beck Row for difficulty in negotiating a roundabout. An on-scene breathalyzer indicated evidence of intoxication. A blood specimen taken at the Mildenhall police station revealed a blood-alcohol level of .149 g/100ml of blood. The airman was convicted of driving with excessive BAC, in violation of United Kingdom Road Traffic Act. Punishment consisted of £440 fine, £35 court costs, and driver's license suspended 18 months.

All active-duty members are now required to have both medical and shot records to receive immunizations. Documentation of immunizations in medical records in addition to shot records is a new requirement identified in AFJI 48-110. The additional documentation will improve the ability to track immunizations, according to 48th Medical Group officials. As in the past, family members and retirees also need both shot and medical records for immunizations.

For more information, call Ext. 6333.

Air Force launches Savings Bonds campaign

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Secretary of the Air Force Sheila E. Widnall and U.S. Treasurer Mary Ellen Withrow joined forces May 16 at the Pentagon to launch the 1997 U.S. Savings Bonds campaign for the Air Force.

The campaign will run from June 1-23. During this period, all Air Force people will receive an informational brochure and be given the chance to sign up to receive Savings Bonds through the payroll savings plan. Those who want more information can contact their payroll or personnel office.

The current interest rate for U.S. Savings Bonds is 5.68 percent. Bonds earn market-based interest that accrues monthly from the issue date. Interest earned is free from local and state tax. Federal tax is deferred until the bonds are redeemed. Bonds earn interest for up to 30 years and are guaranteed safe by the U.S. government.

Officials discuss pay, other issues

Air Force Personnel officials answer some of the questions they receive about pay, benefits, promotions, assignments and other quality of life issues.

Housing allowances

Question: Why doesn't the housing allowance cover all housing costs?

Answer: Congress intended that housing allowances cover 85 percent of housing costs. For example, 65 percent should be covered by the Basic Allowance for Quarters, 20 percent should be covered by the Variable Housing Allowance and 15 percent is to be paid by the member.

So, if rent equals $1,000, the member would pay $150. Unfortunately, BAQ has not kept pace with the Congressional standard of 65 percent and members are now absorbing approximately 19 percent of their housing costs rather than 15 percent.

Congress has increased BAQ above normal rates the last two years to help reduce members' out-of-pocket expenses. For 1997, Congress approved a 4.6 percent increase, 2.3 percent more than would have been required by law. This gave a staff sergeant with a family an additional $123 per year; a captain with a family received an additional $169 dollars per year.

In addition to the increase in BAQ, Congress also approved other changes to address housing concerns: For example, in FY97, a housing allowance locality floor was established to help junior enlisted members who live in high-cost areas. For example, a senior airman at Vandenberg AFB, Calif., receives an extra $104 per month.

More information concerning housing allowances and other quality of life issues can be found on the personnel home page: <http://www.dp.hq.af.mil/DP/>. To answer questions regarding pay, call the financial services office at Ext. 5518.

Pay raises

Question: How do pay raises compare to the private sector?

Answer: Normally, pay raises are about the same. The law states military pay raises will equal the annual increase in the private sector wage growth, minus 0.5 percent. For example, if private wages go up 3 percent, pay raises will equal 2.5 percent

Congress, however, has passed a pay raise above or equal to the private sector wage growth three out of the past six years. In 1997, the Air Force should have received a 2.3 percent increase. Congress raised that to 3 percent, so a staff sergeant with a family who would have received an annual raise of $420, instead received $548; a captain who would have received an annual raise of $846, instead received $1,140

For more information about pay, call Ext. 2417.

Child care providers

Question: I understand there is a shortage of child-care providers. What is the Air Force doing to correct this situation?

Answer: The Air Force added 325 providers to child-care centers, including four at RAF Lakenheath. This action should relieve some of the infant and toddler care shortfall. The Air Force is struggling, however, to meet the total demand, and is expanding school-age child-care capacity by increasing use of the community and youth center facilities as well as striving to optimize the use of qualified family day-care providers

For more information concerning child care, call the child development center at Ext. 3829.

Memorial Day

Ceremony honors WWII Dead and missing

The Liberty Wing sponsors a Memorial Day ceremony honoring the dead and missing of World War II at 11 a.m. May 26 at the Cambridge American Military Cemetery.

More than 1,000 people are expected to attend this year's memorial service including the Secretary of the Air Force, H.M. Lord Lieutenant of Cambridgeshire James Crowden and veterans of World War II who will speak and pay tribute to comrades in arms who have a final resting place on British soil.

The USAFE ceremonial marching band will play vintage Glen Miller music during the one-hour ceremony, and four F-15E Strike Eagles from the 494th Fighter Squadron will fly the missing-man formation.

The Cambridge American Cemetery is one of 14 American World War II military cemetery memorials erected on foreign soil by the American Battle Monuments Commission. It was established as a temporary military cemetery in 1943 on land donated by the University of Cambridge. The site was later selected as the only permanent American World War II military cemetery in the British Isles and was dedicated July 16, 1956.

A large number of the 3,812 American servicemen and women interred there were crew members of British-based American aircraft. Most of the others were killed in the invasions of North Africa and France, in the training areas of the United Kingdom and in the waters of the Atlantic.

Military members attending are required to wear service dress uniform.

One story of gallantry

Lt. Col. Leon R. Vance, Jr.
8th Air Force

Citation for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty June 5, 1944, when he led a heavy bombardment group in an attack against defended enemy coastal positions in the vicinity of Wimereaux, France.

Approaching the target, his aircraft was hit repeatedly by antiaircraft fire which seriously crippled the ship, killing the pilot and wounding several members of the crew, including Vance, whose right foot was practically severed. In spite of his injury, and with three engines lost to flak, he led his formation over the target, bombing it successfully. After applying a tourniquet to his leg, with the aid of the radar operator, Vance, realizing the ship was approaching a stall altitude with one remaining engine failing, struggled to a semi-upright position beside the copilot and took control of the ship. Cutting the power and feathering the last engine, he put the aircraft in a glide sufficiently steep to maintain his airspace.

Gradually losing altitude, he at last reached the English coast, whereupon he ordered all members of the crew to bail out, as he knew they would all safely make land.

But he received a message over the interphone system which led him to believe one of the crew members was unable to jump due to injuries. So he made the decision to ditch the ship in the channel, thereby giving this man a chance for life.

To add further to the danger of ditch- ing the ship in his crippled condition, there was a 500-pound bomb hung up in the bomb bay. Unable to climb into the seat vacated by the copilot, since his foot, hanging on to his leg by a few tendons, had become lodged behind the copilot's seat, he nevertheless made a successful ditching while lying on the floor using only aileron and elevators for control and the side window of the cockpit for visual reference.

On coming to rest in the water, the aircraft commenced to sink rapidly with Vance pinned in the cockpit by the upper turret which had crashed in during the landing. As it was settling beneath the waves, an explosion occurred which threw Vance clear of the wreckage. After clinging to a piece of floating wreckage until he could muster sufficient strength to inflate his life vest, he began a search for the crew member whom he believed to be aboard.

Failing to find anyone, he began swimming and was found approximately 50 minutes later by an air-sea rescue craft.

By this extraordinary flying skill and gallant leadership, despite his grave injury, Vance led his formation to a successful bombing of the assigned target and returned the crew to a point where they could bail out safely. His gallant and valorous decision to ditch the aircraft in order to give the crew member he believed to be abroad a chance for life exemplifies the highest traditions of the armed forces of the United States.

By the irony of fate, his air evacuation C-54 to the United States in late July 1944 disappeared without a trace on the Iceland-Newfoundland leg.

History of American cemetery, memorial

By Linda Laws
Community relations advisor

Nestled in a quiet corner of rural Cambridgeshire, surrounded only by fields and trees, you will find the Cambridge American Cemetery and Memorial. Madingly lies just north of the A14 to the west of Cambridge, and this is where Monday's memorial service will be held.

Location

You may ask, "Why Cambridge?" East Anglia's flat landscape made a natural landing field for aircraft, so there was an abundance of military airfields established before and during World War II. Also, this is an area where a large number of American casualties occurred.

The cemetery was first established Dec. 7, 1943, the second anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The 30.5 acre cemetery site was donated by the University of Cambridge. Construction of the cemetery and memorial was completed in 1956, and was dedicated July 16 that year.

Cemetery

There are 3,811 American war dead buried at the cemetery. There are also a few headstones from other nations. The fan-shaped graves are arranged in quarter circles in a wide sweep across the green lawns -- a view best appreciated from the path near the memorial. The headstones are aligned like the spokes of a wheel, which can be seen from a point at the north edge of the flagpole platform. Each grave plot is enclosed by a boxwood hedge.

The Wall of the Missing

The Wall of the Missing is 472 feet long and built of Portland stone, a limestone quarried in the south of England. The names and particulars of 5,125 missing are recorded here. Above the names is an extract, running the full length of the wall, from the dedication by President Dwight D. Eisenhower of the Golden Book. The Golden Book is now enshrined in St. Paul's Cathedral, London. Along the wall are four statues representing a soldier, a sailor, an airman and a Coast Guardsman in their typical uniforms and with their weapons.

The memorial

Also in Portland stone, the memorial is 85 feet long, 30 feet wide and 28 feet high. On the north face of the memorial are five pylons, each inscribed with a date representing the five years from 1941 to 1945 in which the United States participated in the War. The main doors are of teakwood and bear bronze models of military equipment and naval vessels.

The memorial is divided into a large museum chamber and a devotional chapel. The museum has one map compiled by American artist Herbert Gute from data prepared by the American Battle Monuments Commission. It shows the principal sea routes across the Atlantic and the types of naval and other craft which supported the supply of men and munitions to the European areas of operation. Also shown are the air routes used by the United States Army Air Corps and the Royal Air Force.

Another map on the south wall shows the sites in the United Kingdom loaned to the Armed Forces of the United States for preparation and support of military operations. Air, sea and invasion routes that were necessary for the build-up from January 1942 - June 1944, the D-Day landings in Normandy, France, are indicated. This map was compiled by an English artist, David Kindersley, using data supplied by the American Battle Monuments Commission.

Other features include a mosaic ceiling over the altar depicting aircraft making their final flight toward Glory; the seals of the War and Navy Departments set in glass beside and above the main door; and the seals of the states of the union arranged in vertical rows from left to right in the order in which they entered the union.

The chapel

The words "Into Thy Hands, O Lord" are inscribed in bronze characters over the teakwood doorway in the chapel. The words "faith" and "hope" are set into the chancel rails, also in bronze. A mosaic behind the altar purports to interpret the supreme moment described in the Scriptures in which the archangel sounds his trumpet to announce the coming of the Resurrection and the Last Judgment.

Opening times

The cemetery is open every day of the year, including holidays. Summer opening times are from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. April 16 - Sept. 30, and winter opening times are from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Oct. 1 - April 15.
